By WASH FAYETTE

Most of you have been in Washington C. H. the last 10 years probably have not noticed how many new citizens have come into the city to make their homes and become part of the community.

If you are a good observer, you can see them on all sides, and hundreds of these good folks have come here during the last two years, to take up employment in some of the defense factories, work in the stores, or do a wide range of other work.

I know a great many of these fine folks personally and they are valuable additions to the citizenry of Washington C. H.

I'll venture that a great many more of them will come into the city during the next year or two, and that some of them will fill up many of the vacant business rooms that have been increasing as the war progresses, for a tremendous wave of buying goods of nearly all kinds is certain to follow cessation of hostilities when the thousands of factories can be turned into peacetime production once more.

And here's a little hint to you regular residents of the city; extend the glad hand of welcome to the newcomers whenever opportunity offers. Make them feel at home, and they will become boosters for Washington C. H. immediately.

Believe it or not you can now buy chocolate bars in this city that are made in Buenos Aires, capital of Argentina, South America.

The importation of the Argentine bars (they probably are no sweeter than other candy bars due to the sour situation of Argentina at the present time) is being made to help meet the shortage of domestic chocolate bars.

The big bars retail at 35 cents each, or somewhat higher than the same size bars made in the U. S.

That reminds me that it has not been many years since Argentina corn was sold in Fayette County at prices even under the home grown corn. I believe Argentina packed beef may be found on the shelves of some stores here.

Squeeze on Foe in Burma
May Be First Move

CHUNGKING, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Predictions of closely coordinated action against Japan by Britain, the United States and China were voiced by the Chungking press today as Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten returned to India after a series of talks here with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and British and American military men.

The general tenor of the comment stirred by the visit of the new Allied commander for south-east Asia was "reflected in the Chinese Army organ, Sao Tang Pao, which said:

"We shall soon see on the battlefields the decisions reached in Chungking."

The paper went on to suggest the possibility of a "gigantic pincer movement against Burma" in which, it was said, China will play an important part.

MORE MINERS QUIT
IN ROW OVER WAGES

HARLAN, Ky., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Approximately 2,840 miners quit work at the mines of two coal companies in Harlan County and one in Floyd County today, bringing to about 7,700 the number of idle in Kentucky coal fields.

A majority of Alabama's 22,000 union miners also remained away from the pits and 400 others in western Arkansas still were out.

The Harlan County walkouts were the latest of a series in Kentucky, but were the first attributed to dissatisfaction over lack of a contract between the United Mine Workers of America and the mine owners.

Quarrel Over War Contracts
And Army Spending Seems
Near Settlement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The resignation of Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown in favor of his business-trained, sharp-minded general manager, Chester Bowles, caused nary a rustle of ration stamps today—a far cry from the flare-ups that accompanied previous OPA shifts. President Roosevelt is expected to nominate Bowles within a day or two.

Bowles has been doing the job behind the scenes for the past month and Brown said it was a good one. Congress had decreed that there must be more business and less theory in the OPA and Bowles steadily appointed brass-tacks business men to key positions in accordance with that edict.

He will know how well he has pleased Congress during the expected battle over granting of food subsidies to keep prices down—a program advocated by the administration and frowned on by the congressional farm blocs.

GERMANY AND JAPAN
IMPROVE TREATMENT
OF WAR PRISONERS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Germany is adhering to the rules of the Geneva convention in its treatment of war prisoners and Japanese treatment is improving, reports Tracy Strong, secretary of the Prisoners' Aid Committee of the international division of the YMCA.

"American boys don't make good prisoners because our servicemen aren't prepared for the life of a war prisoner," Strong told a group of relatives of American servicemen and civilians held in Germany at a meeting last night.

Strong said German prison camps are kept fairly clean because of the German fear of epidemics.

COPPER PENNY RETURNS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The copper penny is coming back from the war.

Mint Director Nellie Tayloe Ross announced today that beginning January 1 production of the old copper-hued one-cent piece will be resumed through the use of expended small-caliber shell casings.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Because of further curtailment of newsprint paper supplies to newspaper publishers, and increasing governmental restrictions on newsprint due to employee limitations which have caused a rapidly diminishing reserve of pulp, it is necessary for the Record-Herald, along with all other daily newspapers, to take immediate steps to reduce its volume of newsprint consumption.

The newsprint shortage is a matter of regret to all publishers but it presents a condition which must be faced. STARTING IMMEDIATELY it will be impossible for this newspaper to accept new subscriptions except to replace those voluntarily withdrawn or discontinued. A waiting list will be established and names taken from it in regular order as any new subscriptions become available.

Mail subscriptions will be stopped upon expiration unless a paid renewal is received in advance of the expiration. Any subscriber who fails to take advantage of the renewal notice and is taken from the list, must await his turn for replacement.

Carrier boys have been instructed to deliver papers only to those who pay them promptly and new subscribers by carrier must await their replacement turn.

The conditions which necessitate such an order as this are a source of regret to the publishers of this newspaper but such action is unavoidable, if sufficient newsprint supply is to be obtained to take care of regular subscribers, many of whom have been readers of this newspaper over a period of many years.

Badoglio Planned To Kidnap Hitler

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The German High Command today published details of an alleged plan by Marshal Pietro Badoglio to kidnap Hitler as well as Mussolini.

The plan was said to have been discovered among captured military documents.

The announcement was made by Berlin radio in a broadcast recorded by Reuters.

The kidnap plot story by

DNB, Nazi News Agency, said "documents" supplied by the German High Command to the Voelkischer Beobachter, chief Nazi party newspaper, revealed the plot in which King Victor Emmanuel as well as Badoglio planned to deliver both Hitler and Mussolini to the Allies.

"Badoglio requested the Italian Military Attache in Berlin to call on the Fuehrer at his headquarters and ask him in the name of the King to come to Italy to discuss, with the King and Badoglio, government measures to intensify resistance against the common enemy," DNB said, quoting these "documents."

"The invitation was refused coolly. It came at a time when the handing over of the Duce was decided and sealed."

"Today it is known," DNB continued, "that the King and Badoglio arranged with the enemy to place into his hands the Fuehrer as well as the Duce."

Badoglio and the King "were wrong to believe that their base duplicity had remained hidden from the German Command," DNB concluded in the wireless transmission for use of newspapers in Germany.

THANKS TO GRANDI
BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 22—

(AP)—Footnote to history:

Milans Corriere Della Sera, now German controlled, said today that Count Dino Grandi, former Italian ambassador to London, was "90 per cent responsible" for the fall of Benito Mussolini.

Grandi, who led the fight in the Italian grand council which ousted Mussolini, is now reported in Portugal.

Russian troops thundering south from the Kremenchug bulge threatened today to trap 500,000 Germans in the Dnieper River bend and Crimea in advances which Reuters said carried to within 18 miles of Krivoi Rog, great iron and rail center which is the key to victory.

The German communique said a Russian landing attempt was repulsed on the east coast of the Crimea, probably over the narrow Kerch Strait from the Kuban.

Krivoi Rog lies 108 miles north of the Black Sea port of Nikolaev, west of the Crimea, toward which the Russian drive appeared aimed. Its capture would seal off railways leading to Zaporozhe, Dnepropetrovsk, Kiev and Nikolaev and make a German escape almost impossible.

Reuters said German positions before Krivoi Rog had lost all semblance of a line and that the retreating Nazis were fighting from one hastily improvised position after another.

Increasingly nervous German accounts acknowledged that the Russians were driving into new territory and one broadcaster said the Nazi position in south Russia was "extremely dangerous."

The Russian advance appeared to be gaining momentum and if the Soviets would curl around the river bend and Crimea, they would force a crippling victory that would dwarf the German catastrophe at Stalingrad a year ago. The veterans of that battle a year ago were declared driving on Krivoi Rog today.

Red troops held three fourths of Melitopol including the center of that burning gateway to the Crimea.

ALFRED DE MARIGNY

No Burned Hairs Found, Says
Murder Case Witness

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A bacteriologist testified today that he found no burned hairs on Alfred De Marigny when he examined the defendant in Nassau's most sensational murder trial six days after wealthy Sir Harry Oakes was attacked in his ocean-front estate last July and left to die on a blazing bed.

With the testimony of Dr. Leonard Huggins, the defense struck at the crown's contention that a microscopic inspection on July 9, the day De Marigny was arrested, showed singed hairs on his hands and arms, and in the Van Dyke beard he wore at the time.

Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police has sworn that anyone in Sir Harry's room at the time of the slaying would have tell-tale burned hairs.

VICTORY SPEED LIMIT IS OPPOSED BY BLACK

WARREN, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A victory speed of 40 or 45 miles an hour was recommended today by Col. Lynn Black, superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol. Enforcement of the present 35-mile-an-hour limit, Black said, is "the most thankless job the Highway Patrol ever had." Black told the Warren Kiwanis Club motorists would comply with a higher speed limit and "there would not be so much plain cheating." He expressed the opinion such an increase would not waste rubber or gasoline.

PREMIER STALIN
RECEIVES EDEN

Meeting of Heads of Three Big Allies Coming

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Premier Joseph Stalin took a personal hand in the Moscow tripartite conference by receiving British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at the Kremlin and there was every indication today that he also would see U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull soon.

At the conference itself, the talks were said to be proceeding so satisfactorily that spokesmen intimated decisions on a number of subjects might stand without going before President Roosevelt.

Prime Minister Churchill and Stalin. It now seems generally understood here that a personal meeting of the heads of the three great powers definitely will follow the present conference.

A British spokesman had said early in the current talks they were not solely to lay the groundwork for a subsequent Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin parley, but he added yesterday: "I would say that, too, will be included."

Premier Stalin dressed up in a new marshal's uniform yesterday to receive Secretary Anthony Eden.

Instead of his old unadorned khaki suit and high boots, he wore a military tunic, with a marshal's epaulettes, and long pants.

ALLIED PRISONERS WHO ESCAPED ARE HIDDEN BY GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Approximately 900 Allied prisoners of war who escaped from a German prison camp near Hagen during an Allied air raid are being hidden and fed by German people, the British Broadcasting Corporation said in a German language broadcast last night.

Information to this effect from authentic sources, the broadcast declared, was confirmed by the recent decree issued by the mayor of Hagen directing that "the 900 prisoners who escaped must immediately be reported to the nearest police station."

Distinguished Flying Cross has been awarded to Comdr. Richard L. Burke, commanding officer of the U. S. Coast Guard air station at Elizabeth City, N. C., for this rescue of seven survivors of a sunken German U-boat and other feats. Commander Burke's plane is shown on the surface of the sea, left, near a life raft and a smoke bomb dropped at the scene, while a U. S. Navy blimp hovers overhead. Four of the German sailors are shown, right, climbing aboard plane. Coast Guard photos.

Women Fly Big Bombers
Over Central Ohio Now

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Seventeen women who "still can't believe it's true" are wheeling great Flying Fortresses over Central Ohio today, getting ready to handle heavy stuff for the army's ferry command.

They arrived at Lockbourne Airbase this week and plumed immediately into an intensive nine weeks' training program that will include everything from piloting the heavy bombers to fixing a sparkplug.

Elizabeth Helen Dettweiler of Washington, one of the nation's top-flight feminine golf players of recent years, summed it all up in one short exclamation:

"Winning a golf championship has no thrill like lifting one of these bombers off the ground."

She reached out and patted the side of a Fortress. Miss Dettweiler, now 28, won the Women's Western Open back in 1939.

The 17, members of the Women's Airforce Service Pilots (WASPs), are the first women to be taught how to handle the big ships. They came here from Sweetwater, Tex., where they completed a five and one-half months course at the Ferry command's training field. Each woman, but maintain a military

Powerful Searchlights
Are Revealed As Key To Plan To Curb Nazi Subs

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—One of the big secrets of the battle of the Atlantic against the U-boats has at last been revealed—the million candle-power searchlights carried by Royal Air Force coastal command planes which turn night into day over big stretches of the ocean, wiping out the undersea prowler's "refuge" 13-told interviewers last night. The story of the boys' adventures with the Navy and Marines and his venture into matrimony came to light when his mother, Mrs. Helen Harris, filed an annulment suit.

Marine and Navy recruiting offices said their records tallied with Harris' story, which included action in the Coral Sea and at Midway before his true age was learned.

BRICKER TO ADDRESS
GOP CONGRESSMEN

Preliminary Campaign by
Willkie Stirs Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Don Power, secretary to Gov. John W. Bricker, said today the executive would deliver a major address before Republican members of Congress in Washington at a Lincoln day dinner in February.

No official invitation yet has been extended, Power said, but he anticipated it shortly and said the governor would accept. The date probably will be either Feb. 10 or 11, Power said.

The Lincoln Day dinner is one of the major observances by Republicans in Washington.

Power's announcement came after his return from Washington last night where he conferred with members of Congress.

Wendell Willkie's recent appearance here intensified agitation among Ohio members of Congress to bring Bricker for a major address that might put him formally in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

Girls Fight Duel With Knives
For Affection Of Married Man

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A hand-to-hand knife duel by moonlight between two teen-age girls over the affections of a married man, says Detective Lt. William G. Marr, left both contestants injured and one in a hospital today.

The attractive combatants met at midnight in the presence of "seconds" following a formal challenge, Marr added. He said the married man's identity was not disclosed.

Doris Rhodd, 17, telephone operator, is in a hospital with deep arm wounds. Betty Reeves, 19, drugstore clerk, is at home nursing nicks on her hands.

While Miss Rhodd declined to see interviewers, Lt. Marr said Miss Reeves told investigators:

"Doris had been picking on me for a long time. She started going with a fellow I had gone with for quite a while, and was always making cracks when she saw me."

JEFFERSONVILLE PTA TO HAVE 4 MORE MEETINGS

Number Reduced This Year Because of Gas Rationing

The Jeffersonville P.T.A. will hold only four more meetings, it was decided at the first meeting this year. Future meetings will be at Thanksgiving, Christmas, in February and in April. Curtailment of meetings was made because of gas rationing.

Carl Boring, superintendent of Jeffersonville schools, introduced the faculty. The teachers at Jeffersonville are Edgar N. Post, coach and science; Rowena Graham, science; Margaret Dowler, commercial; Lucille Bates, public speaking and English; Ruby Lee Holdren, English and Latin; Isabel Beaver, physical education and history; Pauline Thomas, home economics; Elizabeth Dunkel, music; Charles Montgomery, principal of the grade school and teacher for grade 6; Lure Allen, grade 5; Dorothy Ulen, grade 4; Elvera Carver, grade 3; Rebekah Fults, grade 2 and Christine McAuliffe, grade 1.

Boring also explained registration for Ration Book 4, scheduled to begin next Monday. He repeated the registration schedules and stated that no school would be held all day Monday and that classes would meet only in the mornings on Tuesday and Wednesday. Boring also invited parents to visit the schools at any time.

Mrs. O. G. Wiseman told the group that Tuesday morning, November 8, had been set aside for Jeffersonville blood donors at the Grade Methodist Church in Washington C. H. She expressed the hope that Jeffersonville would meet her quota again.

After the business session, a musical program under the direction of Mrs. Dunkel and S. C. Creamer was presented.

Included were a girls' ensemble, piano solos, vocal duets and solos and folk songs. The audience joined in singing the folk songs. A sports-news reel was also shown.

The grade teachers are in charge of the program for the next meeting—the Thanksgiving meeting scheduled for November 23.

likely to be spotted and bombed. The searchlights were so successful that on their first tryout they spotlighted two Nazi submarines, which were attacked immediately under favorable circumstances.

A U-boat may be cruising along on the surface in the dark, with no warning that an Allied plane is closing in until it suddenly is engulfed in a great white glare of light and a shower of bombs. This is credited with being an important factor in sapping the morale of the U-boat crews.

The technique has been worked out by specially trained "Leigh light squadrons," named after the originator, 46-year-old wing Commander Humphrey Devereux Leigh, World War I Naval pilot—whose "hush-hush" receipt of the high order of the British Empire in the new years' honors list probably is explained by today's disclosures.

War Contracts
Undersecretary of War Patterson and Comptroller General Warren can't agree on how much say the army should have in settling war contracts. Their disagreement is currently being aired in hearings before the House military committee on legislation to settle the issue. Patterson insists that war agency officials should have final authority. Warren insists that the army is wasting money and his accounting office should be the brake.

Postwar Plans
The Senate looked forward to debate next week on the foreign policy declaration which emerged from the foreign relations committee as a promise of United States cooperation in preserving of the postwar peace and the prevention of aggression. REDS TIGHTENING TRAPS ON GERMANS AS YANKS DRIVE ON OVER ITALY

Army captured the important road junction town of Alife in a 10-mile advance and beat off a furious German counterattack. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said today.

The town of Piedmonte D'Alife near Alife also fell before the American assault while on the Fifth Army's left flank British troops beat off a massive German attack aimed at Cancello on the north bank of the Volturno eight miles in from the sea.

Allied fighters and fighter-bombers swept over the battle area in force, bombing and machine-gunning.

Alife is 13 miles north of the confluence of the Volturno and Calore rivers. The Allied gains over terribly scorched, mountainous terrain represented a sizeable mop-up of territory below the new German line from Mondragone to Venafro.

A furious German counter-attack was beaten back at Alife after its capture. The Germans threw another counterattack at Cancello on the north bank of the Volturno eight miles inland, but headquarters said the foe was repulsed.

The British Eighth Army composing the Allied right wing consolidated positions from central Italy to the Adriatic above Termini, flanking Venafro to the east and northeast.

A Berlin radio spokesman said the German armies in south Russia were in an "extremely dangerous" plight as the Soviets clamped a great pincer on the foe from Melitopol to the Kremenchuk bulge, threatening the great iron center of Krivoi Rog. The direction of the wheeling drive extending the bulge was toward Nikolaev, Black Sea port west of the Crimea where 100,000 Germans and 250,000 convalescent wounded faced entrapment. Fifty towns fell, and Nazis died by the thousands.

The Russians were 16 miles from the major rail junction of Znamenka which controls communications west of the Dnieper. Fresh gains north of Kiev and southwest of Gomel suggested the final Russian drives against those cities were underway. The enemy predicted a new Russian offensive to relieve Leningrad.

American Marauder bombers, supported by Allied fighters, raided the Nazi air base at Evreux-Fauville, France, today as a quick daylight follow-up to raids on western Germany last night by RAF Mosquitos.

While the Allies thus kept their day-night offensive rolling against Germany and occupied territories, Nazi raiders made hit-run attacks on London for the sixth successive night, causing some casualties and damage.

Imperiled by Australian forces on two sides, Japanese soldiers in the jungle northwest of Finschhafen are battling savagely in an attempt to reach the New Guinea coast, an Allied spokesman said today.

These Japanese presently are not trying to recapture Finschhafen, the spokesman explained, although their objective on the coast is only a few miles north of that air base.

Australians of the ninth division have thrown back frontal attacks but the Japanese have achieved some progress by night infiltrations of small patrols.

In the Orient, Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied commander in Southeast Asia, concluded a Chungking conference with President Chiang aKi-Shek and Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell, preparatory to a three-power drive on Japan.

Allied planes struck once again in support of the Yugoslav guerrillas, bombing the important railway city of Skopje.

In all, the Allied air forces in Italy and the Balkans knocked down 16 German planes in a day and night at the cost of one.

Strong partisan forces have stormed into Bosanska Dubica in north central Yugoslavia and also have captured the Lyubija iron mine, second largest in Europe, a Yugoslav liberation army communique announced today.

The communique was broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

METAL THREAD USED BY ARMY SURGEONS

Plates of Tantalum Also Put Over Wounds

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22 — (AP) — Army surgeons are using a metal extensively for the first time to sew together arm and leg nerves ripped apart by enemy bullets and to fit over skull and facial areas where flesh and bone have been shot away. Fifth Service Command headquarters here disclosed today.

Named tantalum, the metal can be made into wire so fine it is almost invisible to the naked eye. It also can be shaped into plates and sheets contoured to substitute for missing pieces of bone and tissue in the face and skull.

The advantages of tantalum were reported by surgeons at the army's recently-dedicated Ashford General Hospital, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Lockbourne Air Base To Be Center of Activities

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22 — (AP) — Active participation of Lockbourne Air Base in a new plan to permit women joining the Women's Army Corps to designate the Army Air Force as the branch of their choice was announced today by Col. John S. Gullet, commanding officer.

Gullet said a Lockbourne team, consisting of one WAC officer, two WAC non-commissioned officers and one male officer would tour 12 Ohio cities to discuss the WAC with interested women as part of a nation-wide recruiting campaign conducted by the Army Air Force.

Similar teams from Cleveland, Wright and Patterson Fields will tour other Ohio cities.

REPUBLICAN UNITY IS SEEN BY WILLKIE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie believes the Republican party is approaching a unity that will make it nationally victorious in 1944 over a Democratic party he termed dominated by southern "political oligarchies" and torn by international feuds.

The Republicans will win, Willkie, a potential candidate for the 1944 GOP presidential nomination said last night, because in his view, the party is emerging with "a philosophy and a program," and "a potential unity which the Democrats have now hopelessly lost."

THE WAR TODAY

Best News To Come Out of China Is That There Will Be No Civil War by Communists

The best news to come out of China in a blue-moon is the assurance from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government that a settlement of its quarrel with the Chinese Communists is in prospect—and that there will be no civil war!

Such a peace would be a God-send not only to China but to the United Nations. To understand the full import of this you must know that the evil spirit of fraternal strife long has been hanging over that war-torn country. When I was in Chungking early this year observers could see only one outcome—a terrible civil war which would come at the end of the Chino-Jap struggle, and might break out before then.

Background for this gloomy view was the fact that there had been many bloody outbreaks in the protracted political strife between General Chiang's one-party (Kuomintang) government and the Communists who have been fighting for recognition of their party. The dangers have been multiplied by the peculiar circumstance that the Chinese armed forces have included several strong Communist armies under their own generals, an agreement having been made to bury the political hatchet temporarily in interests of the war effort against the Japs. The latest rupture in the "United Front" was only last month when the provincial authorities of Shantung charged that Communist forces attacked the state police.

Now comes Chungking's prediction that peace is in sight. More to the point, Generalissimo Chiang has appointed to Communist leaders, General Chou En-Lai and Tng Pi-Wu, to a committee of sixty which has been assigned to do the ground-work for a constitutional government. General Chou is out-ranked in the Communist party only by General Mao Tze-Tung, Communist army commander. Of course, there's still a load of dynamite in the situation, but the Chinese home-front seems to have made a fair start in pulling out of a nasty position.

I had the privilege of meeting General Chou, who was stationed in Chungking as liaison between the Communists and the government. He assured me that his party wasn't working to supplant the government but merely sought recognition along with the Kuomintang. He declared there was no link with Moscow.

My guess is that Chou will play a highly important role, and if that's so it is a happy circumstance that he and Chiang Kai-Shek are friends. Chou is a cultured man of wide education. He looks to be in his sunny forties. He has a striking personality and incidentally is one of the handsomest Chinese I've encountered.

The general comes of an aristocratic official family. He began his revolutionary career when a youth in school in Tientsin. Later he studied in France and became one of the earliest members of the Chinese Communist party. When Generalissimo Chiang was kidnapped by rebels in Sian in 1936 it was General Chou who was instrumental in securing his release. Later Chou negotiated for the reconstruction of the united political front on an anti-Japanese basis.

$7,000 MAY BE RECEIVED FOR SCHOOL LUNCHES

Reimbursement in Lunch Program Is Estimated By W. J. Hilty

When the 15 schools in the county school system, which either are now serving school lunches or propose to do so soon are all under the government's national nutrition program for growing children, it is estimated that between $6,000 and $7,000 dollars will flow into the school coffers by virtue of the reimbursement plan for school lunches instituted here this year.

W. J. Hilty, superintendent of county schools, made that statement when he learned that the nutrition program has been extended to 404 schools in Ohio. He based his estimate on the anticipated serving of approximately 1000 lunches per day.

Hilty explained that most of the schools would be serving type B lunches for which reimbursement is 6 cents per lunch per day. Type B lunches consist of one-half pint of fresh whole milk, an ounce of meat or fish or other equivalent protein foods, one-half cup of vegetables or fruit, one or more slices of bread or muffins with butter or enriched oleomargarine. These lunches may be built around a main dish, a sandwich or may be served as plate meals.

Schools which have applied for the reimbursement program are Staunton, Conner, Good Hope, Marion, Milledgeville and Bloomington. Of these, Staunton, Conner, Good Hope and Marion are now serving lunches. Madison Mills is also serving, but has not yet made application for reimbursement.

Hilty said that he believed Bookwalter, Yatesville, Chaffin, Eber, Wilson, Buena Vista, Olive, Jeffersonville and Madison Mills schools would make application shortly. New Martinsburg school will not serve lunches this year because no facilities for a lunch program have been installed there, Hilty explained.

Monthly reports covering the number of meals served by type, the number of children served without charge and at less than prevailing prices (15 cents per meal) and containing inventories by commodity, of food on hand at the close of business on the last operating day of each month are made to the food distribution administration.

At Good Hope school, serving an average of 100 lunches each day, a typical menu consists of macaroni and cheese, lettuce sandwich, fruit jello and milk. Another similar lunch is creamed corn, ham salad sandwich, baked apple and milk. These are Type A lunches.

Mrs. Ruby Fountain, in charge of the lunchroom at Good Hope, said that when serving began, 1,350 quarts of fruit and vegetables and two dozen pumpkins, uncanned, had been donated for use in the lunch program. From 15 to 18 quarts are needed to make enough servings at each meal when the home-canned food is used.

INTERNATIONAL POLICING

Official thought on the postwar policing of the world appears to have settled back to a level on which there is hope of more general approval.

For a time, the thinkers were considering an international army to which all nations of good faith would contribute. This United Nations Army would consist, like the old French Foreign Legion, of men of every race, who for the period of their service, would forswear service to the United States, Britain, France, and give obedience to the United Nations.

The current idea is less radical. It contemplates co-ordinated military cooperation against any belligerent, but each nation would retain authority over its own soldiery. The public will like this much better.

FACTORS TO PREVENT COLLAPSE

In a report by Emerson P. Schmidt, the economist of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it is pointed out that the fundamental cause of inflation—"rise of money means of payment or buying power of the civilian population"—has not been dealt with. The point is made in a listing of the factors which will prevent collapse if properly employed.

The survey was undertaken to provide an answer to the question, "Is postwar collapse inevitable?" The chamber's answer is in a confident no, provided certain policies are adhered to in the planning for the postwar period. Of these policies one of the most important will have to be the maintenance of a less inflated price level than existed at the end of the last war.

This will require full public support of several essential tasks, including financing of the larger war costs by taxation and purchase of war bonds by individuals rather than by commercial banks; expansion of consumer goods production to such an extent as will not interfere with the war effort.

After the war, the chamber believes, inflationary forces may be just as pronounced as now because of pent-up consumer demand. This demand may be a factor in the nation's postwar economy, because if the people expect prosperity and act accordingly, a prosperous period is likely to result. The reverse is also true. If the people expect a postwar depression, one will likely result because then people with spending money will withdraw their purchasing power and produce stagnation.

In the chamber's view, therefore, the people will have much to do with postwar economic soundness and with prosperity as against depression.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

It is a truism that a nation is strong only as its youth is strong—and in this case strength refers equally to the mental and physical. It should be a rude shock for the nation to learn of the high rate of rejection by draft board physi-

Quick Somebody, Find Me a Wife
KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Clerks were surprised when a soldier dashed into the drug store and started looking for a girl to marry him.

He explained he had obtained a six-day furlough on this pretense and must go through with it to avoid the guard-house.

The story went the rounds and the clerks were kept busy by girls telephoning to inquire about the soldier, and leaving their telephone numbers. If the unidentified soldier found a bride he kept it to himself.

When you meet a lonely soldier, sailor or marine, don't let that wretched self-consciousness "get" you. Think of the boy, away from home, probably homesick, and not of yourself, and then you'll have no difficulty talking to him. That is "tact" and good manners.

cians and Army doctors of youths of 18 and 19.

In this group, which ought to be the highest development of the nation's youth, 23.8 percent of the whites and 45.5 percent of the Negroes examined were found unfit for general military duty.

These findings are reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Col. Leonard G. Rowntree, national medical director for selective service. The findings were based on examinations conducted during a three-month period. The chief cause of rejections among white youths was eye defects; among Negroes the chief cause were educational deficiency and syphilis, which accounted for more than half of all rejections.

It would be easy to take comfort in the fact that from half to three-quarters of the youths are fit for service, but it would not be wise to take such an attitude because there can be no denying the fact that the boys in that age group must be healthier if the future security of the nation must be maintained.

Here is certainly a problem that must be attended to promptly and efficiently.

A PROMISE TO ADOLF

Commanding General H. H. Arnold of the Air Corps was not talking about some distant future when he spoke recently about super-bombers that "will dwarf our present Flying Fortresses," bombers that "will carry half a carload of bombs across the Atlantic and fly home without stop."

Engines for this super-plane already are being built by the Wright Aeronautical Corp. in a New Jersey plant on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

Among the several places we would not care to be in the near future, include the shoes worn by Adolf Hitler.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Your Capital in Wartime:

Not many people know it, but that pretty wife of freshman Congressman LaVern Ralph Dilweg, Democrat, of Green Bay, Wis., is none other than Eleanor Coleman, the onetime Olympic swimming star.

So far as the records reveal that makes the Dilwegs the only all-American family in Congress, because the Representative himself was all-America end on the Marquette team in 1925; was a star of all-victorious Green Bay Packers in 1929, '30, '31; and for three years before giving up football in 1934, was named all-American pro end.

Right now the Dilwegs are doing free-stroke and broken field dashes trying to find a house in Washington that will take care of their family of six. Eleanor says winning swim championships was nothing like this. She has finally reached the point, she confesses, where she would be willing to lease two houses, apartments or what-have-you; one to take care of the senior Dilwegs; the other to provide a roof and four-posters for Jon, Bob, Tom and Dianne, ages 14 to 4 respectively.

I don't know why a New York press agent didn't think of it sooner (except that it didn't need any publicity boost there and doesn't here for that matter), but when the Lynn Riggs-Rodgers-Hammerstein operetta, "Oklahoma," opened here at the National theater, Gov. Robert Kerr and a fistful of other Oklahoma state officials were house guests.

When last seen, burly, sardonic "Bob" Kerr and his cohorts were getting a whale of a kick out of the whole business. "Oklahoma" is, as far as any musical can be, about as native as the red dust that blows out of the Canadian river bottoms. However, when they came to that line in the musical's smash song hit, "Oh, what a beautiful day," where the lyrical author talks about the corn being as "high as an elephant's eye," one of the party stage-whispered to the Governor: "Lordy, what a growin' season that must have been."

Congressman James P. "Jim" Richards of South Carolina and a native of Liberty Hill, S. C., has only one complaint to make about what the war is doing to our liberties: It's depriving us of hominy grits.

Representative Richards is just as willing as the next fellow to make war sacrifices, but when OPA starts taking away hominy grits, he says they are undermining not only South Carolina but a lot of other Southern states, and leaving them just doggone little under their belts to combat the war effort.

This column not only agrees with Mr. Richards, but it issues this warning to "Jimmy" Byrnes, "Judge" Vinson, WFA Chief Marvin Jones and President Roosevelt: If they are really interested in preventing a Southern rebellion in 1944, they better see about breaking out that hominy grits bottleneck right now.

Diet and Health

Food Facts Often Distorted

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

MAN HAS a tendency to take a truth and exaggerate certain parts of it until it becomes for all practical purposes an untruth. The principle is illustrated in the overemphasis given the use of vegetable juices during the last few years by health food cafeterias, ideas that vegetable juices constitute a tumor treatment, and other half-baked ideas.

The plain facts are—as anyone can tell you who has ever tried them, unless he is a plain crank—that raw vegetables are less digestible than cooked vegetables. Furthermore, one of the principal advantages of vegetables is that they furnish roughage, which advantage vanishes when you use the juices, and the vegetable bulk contains a great deal of solid nourishment not found in the juices.

If someone could just get together a group of food faddists and get them photographed, it would go far towards dispelling the theories they stand for. Most of them are physical wrecks. Of course, they say that the reason they have to eat a special kind of diet is that their constitutions are so weak, but the fact is their constitutions are weak because they eat the kind of food they do.

Food Faddists

I know a fellow who believed that the only healthy food was peanuts. How he got in that frame of mind, I don't know. It wouldn't seem natural for the creator of the universe to plan the universe on that basis and then make the places where peanuts grow so few and far between. Well, if he was an example of peanuts as an exclusive diet, he was a misfit—he was a physical wreck.

I saw another person in the clinic last year who was a bright yellow color. At first the attendants thought he was jaundiced, but the history developed the fact that he had been drinking a quart of carrot juice a day for over a year. Now carrots are fine vegetables and they contain vitamin A and roughage and lots of other things, but they are much better taken whole and cooked than in the form of juice. Of course, carotene in excess does no harm, but it looks peculiar.

Unscientific Claims

The point of these remarks is the increase in the number of raw vegetable bars in all our cities, where claims are made for vegetables that are utterly unscientific and result not in good health, but bad health. It's all right to say that the wild animals eat them raw, but you are not a wild animal and your digestive system has become conditioned for centuries to having your vegetables cooked, which breaks up the cellulose, gives the digestive juices a chance and suits your nutritional demands just as well as the juice.

Then I hear that a combination of raw spinach juice, raw cucumber juice, raw carrot juice and raw beet juice is harmful. That spinach contains oxalic acid and this renders the calcium in the body useless. The fact is that the infinitesimal amount of oxalic acid contained in spinach is eliminated by the kidneys pronto, and the calcium goes on just the same. What possible harm could the raw juices of such perfectly good vegetables as spinach, carrots, beets and cucumbers do?

Verily, a little learning is a dangerous thing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

K. G.: Will you kindly write an article on the function of the adrenal gland, and how it should be treated. Any connection with arthritis?

Answer: That is a large order to answer. There are two parts to the adrenal gland. One part is the substance from which we get adrenalin, and it mostly exercises control over the circulation. The other part is connected with the functions of the pituitary and the gonads and we don't know so much about that. However, none of them have any connection with arthritis.

M. G.: Are surface veins on the thighs made worse by exercise and golf and tennis?

Answer: Yes, I believe they are, but then they get worse anyway and you might as well have the fun of the exercise.

M. C.: What foods contain calcium? Can pulmonary tuberculosis be cured; if so, what method can be used at home? Will change of climate help?

Answer: I can't think of any foods except sugar and coffee that do not contain calcium. The best method of treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis is collapse of the affected lung by pneumothorax. Tuberculosis can be treated at home, but it is an example of the worst disease on earth for home treatment. Climate helps almost one-thousandth of one per cent.

CHAPTER FORTY TWO

MEANWHILE out on Linville's little river a motor boat moved slowly and steadily upstream. In it were three people, two men and the boy, Zeb Rottler. Zeb was at the wheel, and the two men were keeping a close watch over him.

"If you so much as look at that dame again," one of the men said, "you'll be in no condition to enjoy this boat of yours or anything else."

"But I had to save her," explained Zeb, "when she was hanging to the tree. She couldn't have held on much longer."

"So what?"

"She might have drowned."

Zeb didn't reply. He gave his attention to the steering, looking out for the boat landing back of the old Johnson house.

"We saw you," the other man said, "sitting there shooting off your mouth when you weren't stuffing it with the dame's food."

"Yeah," said Zeb.

"Trying to go romantic on us or something?"

"No, sir."

"Well, if you are, you'll regret it. All it takes to mess up something is a woman's humping in."

"Yeah," said Zeb.

"Shut up. We're paying you to do this work for us—and you take orders. Understand?"

"Yeah," said Zeb.

"And for heaven's sake stop being a yes man."

"Yeah, I mean no, sir."

"Keep away from that dame," the man said. "Get that straight!"

There was threat in his voice and his posture. "If you don't," he added, "you'll discover that this maddening little river of yours will make a swell grave—although a bit wet."

"Women," said the other man, "are poison when it comes to—plans like ours."

"Yeah."

"And remember, we're hunters," one of the men added. "Hunters—down for the quail season. Just that and nothing more."

"That's what I told the dame—I mean Brenda," said Zeb.

"You had no business telling her anything!"

The boat slid around a bend. The Johnson farm lay in the dimness. Zeb made for the landing.

One of the men pressed a gun against Zeb's ribs. "One wrong word, or one wrong move out of you," he said, "and—bang!—your Aunt Freda will be minus a nephew."

"Yeah," said Zeb—and felt weak and scared in the spot where his stomach was supposed to be.

The threats that the two men, his employers, made had their effect, and Zeb stayed clear of Brenda, much as he wanted to see her again. He was confused as well as scared, and he tried to talk the matter over with his aunt, but she wouldn't listen.

"You just do as those men tell you," she said, "and keep your mouth shut."

"But Aunt Freda," said Zeb, "maybe the things I'm hauling ain't tackle and supplies."

"What else could they be?" the woman demanded.

"Explosives—bombs—"

"Listen, Zeb, cut out talk like that—right now."

"But in that movie I saw the other night, some men landed in a rubber boat from a submarine, and buried dynamite and stuff on an island, and—"

"I told you to keep your mouth shut, didn't I?"

"Yeah."

"Then see that you do it," his aunt snapped, and got her hat and coat. "I've got to hurry and be at the factory before that Potter woman gets there with some more new-fangled ideas about feeding working men."

Zeb watched her go, puzzled, worried and more confused than ever. Sometimes he felt he would go stark crazy if he couldn't talk to someone, someone like that pretty Miss Brenda who had given him such a nice lunch. He wanted to talk about his aunt, put into words some of the nagging thoughts about her that bothered him, even kept him awake when he'd let them.

There were times when he was certain that his aunt was as confused as he was, or even more so. For instance, the way she had of talking about her "folks" overseas, worrying about them. She was working in a factory that was helping this country, but still saying strange things now and then that made him feel she wasn't sure which side she wanted to win the war. And seeing so much of that tool-maker, Otto, seeming to like him at times and then at other times acting as though she were afraid of him. Letting him meet the two men who had the lodge in her house. But always sending him, Zeb, off to a movie, or urging him off to learn more about operating a lathe. Things Miss Brenda might be able to explain. And yet he dared not see her again. The men might be spying on him, and he didn't like the way they had talked. So he stayed away from the river, didn't use his beloved motor boat except at night when the two men came to get him to go with them. And wondering if Miss Brenda looked for him—expected him.

Which she did.

She had been looking for him for three days. For three mornings she had taken her lunch down to the sandy spot by the river, with its overhanging willows.

"What you-all a-goin' down thar for, honey?" Aunt Mary Mosher wanted to know.

"I like eating by the water," said Brenda. "Cold weather will be here soon, and I won't be able to get out of doors a great deal. I may even be back in New York."

"Humph!" Aunt Mary snorted. "What for you-all want to go up there an' mix around with them Yankee devils? Yo' place is down here wha yo' belongs." She eyed Brenda quickly. "What a yo' ought to be doing is gittin' married. A purty girl like you-all is aint got no business bein' no ol' maid."

Brenda smiled, howbeit somewhat feebly. Funny thing, Aunt Mary's speaking of old maids, Brenda herself had been thinking a lot about them here of late, and thinking about them hadn't done her any good. It depressed her.

After all, she had argued with herself, people ought to marry. It was the normal thing to do. A man really needed the companionship of a woman, and a woman certainly needed the companionship of a man.

What was there to living the sort of life she lived—all alone? And what did Adam North, for example, get out of living as he lived—all alone? Old maids were horrible things, and bachelors were almost as bad. Something ought to be done about it. And as for careers—well, where did they get a woman after all? A few short years of lucrative independence perhaps—and after that, what? That was just what was bothering her a great deal—that "what?" A four-letter word and an interrogation mark. No answer. A sort of bleak future. A blank wall. The end of the trail—then a life of loneliness.

Depressing thoughts beside a river—and underneath a weeping willow, of all things. She couldn't stand it any longer, sitting there thinking, thinking, thinking. To heck with Zeb and his boat. To heck with everything but her own personal life. She had to talk to someone, and she did so that night, as she and Adam North were doing air raid duty along a street that led to the factory grounds. The rehearsal had been called off because the head air raid warden had called a blackout.

Adam patrolled one way, Brenda another. But they met now and then close to the factory entrance.

"As a G-woman, I'm a complete flop," Brenda announced as they met and paused.

"What's happened?" said Adam.

"That's just it—nothing."

"Maybe you're such a good G-woman things are afraid to happen," Adam grinned. "Go on, tell me what's on your mind."

"I will when I pass you the next time," said Brenda, and marched on. So did Adam.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"You were absolutely correct in making the statement you did, George... not a drop of whiskey has been distilled in this country in over a year."

"That's what I told the boys down at the lodge, Judge, but they were so surprised I thought maybe I was wrong."

"No you weren't, George. The truth of the matter is that a year before Pearl Harbor, the beverage distilling industry voluntarily offered its facilities to the government. Many companies started to produce alcohol for war purposes almost immediately. And just as soon as the government's requirements increased, the distilling facilities of the entire industry were converted 100% to the production of war-alcohol and nothing else. As a matter of fact, the beverage distilling industry is producing about half of the government's needs for this vital war material. And that's a 24 hour a day, 7 day a week job, George."

"I'm glad I told you about my talk with Sam, Judge. You've given me a lot more facts on that subject."

75 PER CENT OF SERVICEMEN USE USO CLUBS NOW

Sgt. Stewart Gossard Writes After Visiting USOs In Fifty Cities

Sgt. Stewart Gossard, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gossard, in reply to a questionnaire concerning the USO sent him by Walter Patton, chairman of the publicity committee of the National War Fund here, says:

"They really are popular. Any USO I have ever been in is usually packed, especially in the evening. I think at least 75 percent of the servicemen I know use the USO constantly, here in Austin (Austin, Texas, where Sgt. Gossard is stationed now) and in Chicago, Milwaukee, Denver, New York City, Washington, D. C., Mobile, Ala., Dallas, Texas, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City.

"I have been in USO Clubs in approximately 50 cities and find them all good. I usually head there first and get a line on what's to do in the city, points of interest and to write letters. They always have shower and shaving facilities. Most USO clubs give complimentary tickets to shows, plays, dances or anything that might interest a soldier. Anyone wanting a hotel room or married couples are steered to the right places.

"There is usually no charge whatsoever for services. If there is any charge, it is a reduced rate or a small federal tax.

"They are very friendly. I have never found a place where you weren't welcome and got all the help or information you desired. Most women or girls have brothers or sons in the service and treat you as they would want their relatives treated.

"I think you folks at home couldn't have a better place to put your money. The USO is a link between the soldier and home and someone will always listen to your troubles if you have any and try to advise you the right thing to do."

Making work like this described by Sgt. Gossard possible, is what the dollars contributed to the National War Fund do, the committee here points out. The USO is one of 17 agencies which benefit by contributions to the National War Fund—and is listed first among them.

The campaign here is to begin next Monday and the goal is $22,000. With the committees for the entire county set up now, a concentrated two-week campaign is expected to reach the quota, A. B. Murray, county chairman, indicates.

BOARD TO MEET AND PLAN FOR SEAL CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Marguerite Powell Is County Chairman for Annual Drive

The executive board of the Fayette County Christmas Seal Committee will meet Tuesday at 7:30 P. M. at the home of the newly appointed county chairman, Mrs. Marguerite Powell, to discuss plans and make arrangements for the coming campaign to sell health seals in the relentless war against tuberculosis, a disease which has been on the increase the past year or two.

Date of launching the drive and all details for making it a success, will be decided upon at the meeting Tuesday evening.

It will be the 37th annual health seal campaign and liberal support on the part of the public generally is anticipated this year.

Warren M. Durkee is president of the board.

For many years, the practice of mailing a supply of health seals to a select list of citizens has been followed with much success, and this plan will probably be carried out in the coming drive, as well as seals being sold to the public by various groups.

off work. She said she would be there, I said O. K."

Marr quoted Betty as saying that as a precaution she tucked a knife into her belt and took with her a friend, Jean Jackson, also employed at the drugstore.

On the bus, Marr quoted Betty as relating, the girls encountered Doris, likewise accompanied by a friend, Bertha Cook, 17. They rode to a vacant lot.

"Doris was much larger than I so I pulled out the knife and showed it to her. Telling her 'I don't want any trouble,' the detective quoted Betty. "Then she came at me with what looked like a letter opener, or a long thin knife, and grabbed my hair.

"She threw me down and kept pulling at my hair. If I cut her I don't know when it happened. But suddenly there was blood dripping on my face and I said, 'Pease, Doris, don't let's fight any more.' She was on top of me, trying to grab the knife, and I felt the blade cut my fingers.

Miss Jackson told detectives, "both girls got up and started crying about their wounds. Then we split up."

COURT CANCELS DIVORCE DECREE DUE TO FRAUD

Meanwhile, the Plaintiff Is Married to Clinton County Woman

Judge H. M. Rankin, in an entry placed on the docket in the divorce case of Stewart Ransom, of Greene County, against Lois Ransom, cancels a decree of divorce awarded to Ransom on May 13, 1943, on grounds of fraud perpetrated upon the court by the plaintiff.

The decree sustains a motion filed by the defendant in the case, in which various allegations contrary to those set forth by Ransom in his divorce action, were made.

The plaintiff, soon after the decree was awarded in May, is alleged to have married a Wilmington woman, so that he finds himself in the unusual position of having two wives as result of the fraud.

The motion of the defendant, heard Oct. 1, 1943, was to vacate the purported decree of divorce awarded to Ransom on May 13. The court in sustaining the motion and cancelling the former divorce decree, found that the defendant had had no actual notice and that the affidavit made by the plaintiff that his wife had abandoned him eight months prior to the suit filed was false.

Also that the plaintiff's declaration that no children were born of the marriage was false, as three children were born and one of them died. The last one was born April 14, or soon after plaintiff had taken his wife to Lima to the home of her mother. Instead of defendant not knowing where she was, he had visited her, sent her money, and called her by telephone, the evidence showed.

The evidence further showed that Ransom had represented his residence as Fayette County, yet lived in Greene County.

Also that the plaintiff had filed an action for divorce in Greene County, his wife had filed an answer and they had lived together afterward. This action is said to be still pending in Greene County.

It is one of the first court actions of its kind in many years, where a decree is set aside and case dismissed on grounds of fraud.

CREW MAKING HEADWAY MOVING LEAVES IN CITY

Work of removing the big accumulation of leaves swept into the gutter from abutting property, is well under way, with several men and the leaf cart being used in the work.

The streets generally were filled with leaves before the work started, and it will still be several days before the crew has completed the first rounds, and the work will continue for the next two or three weeks as more leaves fall.
